LEGAL 250: Introductory Legal Studies

Course Description:
Interdisciplinary exploration of basic issues of law's relationship to contemporary society. Topics include the nature and the historical and social functions of law; the culture and role of major actors in the legal system (lawyers, judges, juries, police, technology); tension between ideals and realities in law; role of law in addressing contemporary social problems. Fosters analytical and critical skills. Discusses broad questions of individual responsibility, social morality, and justice.

Online CS2 - CPE Summer Session 2 (7/11-8/19)
Gen. Eds. / Credits: SB U; 4 credits

Instructor: Jeremy Wolf
My work straddles the sub-fields of American politics and political theory, with a specific focus on the history and political significance of "the economy" in American politics. I also have a substantial side interests in the politics of methodology, American political thought, democratic theory, and political economy. My dissertation examines the production of the economy as a materialization, as well as the ways in which this produced object is read back onto theorists whose work predates its production. I am particularly interesting in the ways in which recognition of the economy as a produced object of relatively recent vintage may open up new possibilities for political change.

How to Enroll:
Prior to enrolling, you need a CPE self-enrollment appointment.
Log into SPIRE with your NETID and Password
Main Menu > Enrollment > Summer/Wntr/Non-degr Enroll Appt and follow instructions
Once you have an appointment, log into SPIRE > Main Menu > Enrollment > Add Classes https://www.umassulearn.net/registration-info/how-to-enroll/undergraduate